

Dr Luis Rajmil is senior researcher at the Catalan Agency for Health Technology Assessment and Research (CAHTA) and collaborator at the Municipal Institute of Medical Research (both in Barcelona, Spain). He received his MD degree in Argentina and trained in Pediatrics at the Autonomous University of Barcelona, obtained his MPH degree at the University of Barcelona and also completed a PHD. His research work has been devoted to the Health-Related Quality of Life in children and adolescents, mental health and health services research in children. He was the Principal investigator of different European and Spanish projects related to measures of health and quality of life in children and adolescents, such as the development of the European KIDSCREEN measure and the Spanish version of the Child Health and Illness. He is an expert advisor to the Spanish, Catalan, and Barcelona Health Interview Surveys board. Dr. Rajmil is Associate Editor of the Quality of Life Research Journal.